McKINLEY'S OPINION.

He Speaks His Opinion of the Ohio Situation.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22.—Concerning the nomination at the Democratic convention at Springfield yesterday, Gov. McKinley said to a reporter last night, "The Democrats could not have selected a nicer man than Gov. Campbell. Gen. Bushnell could not wish for a higher compliment than to defeat a man like Mr. Campbell, which he will, don't forget that."

Gov. McKinley feels certain that the Republicans will carry the state by a big majority.

BAD HOTEL FIRE.

A Summer Place Goes Up in Flames With Great Loss.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]

NYACK, N. Y., Aug. 22.—A fire at 3 o'clock this morning destroyed the Grand Lockland hotel at Congers. The total loss is $80,000. William A. Webb, one of the guests, jumped from a third-story window, broke his leg and received other serious injuries. He is in a critical condition. His wife was carried out much injured. Some of the guests lost all their clothing, and left for the city this morning wrapped in blankets.

OSCAR WILDE'S FINANCES.

He Spent Much More Than His Income and is Bankrupt.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]

LONDON, Aug. 22.—A statement of the condition of the affairs of Oscar Wilde's finances shows his liabilities to be $3,501 pounds, with no available assets. Wilde's income has averaged $10,000 a year, chiefly from his literary and dramatic works. He has been insolvent two years, and his expenditures greatly exceeded his income.

OUT TOMORROW.

Directors of American Railroad Union to be Released.

[Special dispatch to the Transcript.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Having served their full three months' sentences for contempt of court, the Directors of the American Railway Union will be dismissed tomorrow. On reaching Chicago they will be met by a committee of railroad men and on Sunday a reception will be tendered them. President Debs' term will not be ended for three months yet. The release of the men will mark a new departure in the work of organizing railway employees. The district headquarters will be established in all large railway centers in the country.

A Doctor and Authoress and Little Girl Go Down Together.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]

BROOKLINE, Maine, Aug. 22.—While crossing the channel between Nasque Point and Harbor Island in a small boat last night, Dr. L. F. Carter of Boston, Miss Don E. Flora and Miss Foster of New York were thrown into the channel and drowned. Dr. Carter leaves a wife and three children in Boston. Miss Flora was an actress and authoress and was better known as Miss Beulah. She had written several dramas. Miss Foster was twelve years old. The bodies of Miss Beulah and Miss Foster have been recovered.

ANOTHER MISSION WRECKED.

Chinese Pursue Their Work of Murder and Pillage.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]

HONG KONG, CHINA, August 22.—Information was received here that a large mob of natives a few days ago attacked the American mission and wrecked the chapel and school house. Four native scholars were wounded, but the teacher, an American, escaped. There is a strong anti-foreign feeling spreading rapidly. The populace parade the streets shouting "Down with foreign devils," and it is not safe for foreigners to show themselves.

Drowned in Far Away Seas, Heap of Inflated Bodies.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 22.—Steamer Excelsior arrived here last night with news of the wreck of the sealing schooner Walter Earle of Victoria. Eleven dead Indians were found heaped together in the forecastle of the wreck when picked up by Steamer Francis Cutting about the middle of July. The Earle capsized about April 14 in a gale off the Kodak Islands. No white man's remains were found and the story of the drowning of Captain Magnusen and seven white men will never be known.

THE LISTENER.

George W. McMillon of St. Louis can repeat the whole of the Bible word for word.

Governor Hastings of Pennsylvania always eats a hearty meal before retiring at night.

Frederick Law Olmsted, the landscape architect, bears a striking resemblance to Rudyard Kipling's father.

Senator Hill is said to be a chicken fancier. At his home near Albany, he has a magnificent poultry yard, where he raises game chickens.

Mr. J. W. Kaufman of St. Louis has his life insured for $335,000. Mr. Kaufman's home is palatial, and his well kept grounds extend the length of an ample block.

Max Alvary, the tenor, whose real name is Achenbach, speaks five languages, and in his time has been a photographer, blacksmith, carpenter, electrician, architect and soldier.

James Roy Tucker of Fulton, Mo., is either a record maker or a calumniated man. He is reported to have taken 50 different girls out riding in 30 days, rain or shine, on a wagon.

William Stuart Symington, Jr., of Baltimore, who has been elected professor of the Romance languages at Amherst, spent five summers in Paris studying French literature and philology.

Captain Jonathan Norton of Lee, Mass., has just entered upon his hundredth year. "I have been," he told some reporters, "a tradesman, a farmer, a soldier, a poet and an inventor and was probably the first man to make a match in Berkshire county."

Dr. P. J. Farnival, who has eminent authority on the English language and literature of the Elizabethan era, says that Shakespeare's name was pronounced "Shakspair," the a having the sound of "in" in "father" and the e sounding as "air."

John A. King, president of the Fort Dearborn National bank at Chicago, was a path driver on the Erie canal in his boyhood. Today he is a member of the Union League and the Illinois club, and has one of the finest residences on Ashland boulevard in Chicago.

Cecil Rhodes, the virtual king of South Africa, once replied to an application from England for a place for a young man who was anxious to try his fortune at the Cape, "Send me his photograph, and I'll let you know by return whether I can do anything for him or not."

The latest news from Explorer Nansen is a letter received by his brother, Mr. Alexander Nansen of Christiania. The letter is dated July 17, 1895, and in it the explorer says that he does not expect to be home again in less than three or four, or possibly five, years.

President Diaz of Mexico is described by a recent eyewitness as purely Aztec in appearance. "His color is almost that of the Indian. His hair is black and straight and falls a little over his temples. His strength lies in his chin as clearly as Samson's strength lay in his hair."

William Williams, who was killed in Philadelphia recently by fire from the Penn statue on the public building tower, was widely known as "The Lone Fisherman of Johnston." He found and assisted in identifying the bodies of more than 200 victims of the great flood of 1889.

FOREIGN FOLK.

Baron Harden-Hickey, otherwise James L. King of Trinidad, is now after fortune. These two great powers may possibly be induced to arbitrate.—New York Recorder.

Henry M. Stanley is now an M. P. The story that he ate a man in Africa does not seem to have been considered an objection by the intelligent electors.—London Advertiser.

The king of Portugal has a crown worth $8,000,000. That sum would build a pretty fair railroad, and Portugal needs railroads much more than she needs crowns or kings.—Louisville Times.

The German emperor will smoke no cigars except those specially made for him. This renders it awkward for anybody to make himself solid with him by offering him a cigar.—Boston Herald.

Japan may not be preparing for an immediate attack upon Russia. But suppose she gets her new navy built before the Transiberian railroad is completed? That railroad is now just a quarter done.—New York Tribune.

In the high schools of Japan the English language is placed on the same footing as the Japanese, and its study is compulsory. The Japs are as good at looking after the future as they are in keeping up to date in current affairs.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WHEELING RULES.

A surgeon gives, in an English magazine, some excellent rules for bicycle riding:

First.—Never ride within half an hour of a meal, which means either before or after.

Second.—Wheel the machine up any hill the mounting of which on the wheels causes any real effort.

Third.—See that the clothing round the stomach, neck and chest is loose.

Fourth.—Have the handle bar sufficiently raised to prevent stooping.

Fifth.—Be as sparing as possible of taking fluids during a long ride. Rinsing the mouth thoroughly, as well as gargling with cold water, will quench the thirst as well as it not better than taking fluids into the stomach in large quantities.

WITHOUT A HOME.

Sanford Post Stores Its Goods and Will Look for New Quarters.

The Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans Also Homeless. The Ladies to Meet at Their Homes.

NECESSITY FOR CHANGE REGRETTED.

A Special meeting of C. D. Sanford post No. 79, G. A. R., was held last night to take action on the notice received a day or two before to vacate the rooms in the Adams National Bank building which have been the headquarters of the post for twenty-five years. It was voted unanimously to vacate at once and the furniture and other property of the post is now being stored in Gatschick's building on Main street, where it will remain till new quarters are secured.

This removal as was stated yesterday, is a result of the demand of the Bliss Business college for more room. It is not because the post was not amply accommodated in the old quarters as the rooms were fitted expressly for the use of the Grand Army when the building was erected and have fully met the needs of the post and its auxiliary organizations, the Woman's Relief Corps and the Sons of Veterans, all of which bodies greatly regret the necessity of seeking new quarters. At the meeting a committee was appointed to procure new quarters for the post. This committee is composed of Commodore Henry A. Towse, George Stockwell and G. L. Jewett.

Neither organization now has any place for meeting, nor any in view. The Relief Corps will meet next Wednesday evening at the home of G. L. Jewett, No. 11 Houghton street, and further meetings will probably be held at the homes of the members until the Grand Army establishes permanent quarters again. The post and Sons of Veterans do not know where they will meet for the present. New quarters will be secured just as soon as satisfactory rooms can be obtained.

The members of the post especially regret the circumstances which compel them to retire from their old home, in which they have been so long and comfortably established. They hope, however, and expect to secure other quarters at no very distant day and to again settle down to the work of their organization.

MOON-ROBERTSON.

Miss Jennie E. Moon, daughter of Mrs. S. M. Moon of Brown street and Charles J. Robertson, Jr., of Adams were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride, by Rev. Dr. G. W. Brown. The wedding was quiet, owing to the recent death of Mrs. Ellis, the ceremony being performed in the presence of a few friends only. Miss Maude Berry was bridesmaid and William Robertson, brother of the groom, was best man. After a short wedding tour in New York the young people will take up their residence in this town. They are very popular young people. Their popularity was shown by the number of valuable and artistic presents they received. The best wishes of a large circle of friends attend them.

ELECTRIC PLANT FOR LEE.

Manufacturers in Lee have taken one more step in the proposed scheme of running their mills by electricity, and it is not improbable that the plans may be consummated within a year. It is now thought that the plant can be erected at a cost of about $80,000. It will probably be located about three miles below Lake May, the principal source of Lee's water supply, and from that lake power will be obtained to run the plant. In this way the manufacturers will get the direct benefit of about 600 feet fall, and it is thought that the water supply will be sufficient to run the plant the year round and furnish power for the mill. There are about a dozen manufacturers who will avail themselves of the power, providing the plan materializes.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.

Rev. Dr. G. W. Brown helped to make six hearts happy yesterday. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon he married Herbert Carter to Miss Elizabeth McNulty. Their carriage had hardly left the parsonage before another drove up containing a second happy couple, and soon Griffith D. Davis and Miss Jennie White were made one. Within an hour he was called for and taken to the home of the bride and Charles J. Robertson and Miss Jennie E. Moon were married. Best wishes go with them all.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT.

In the District Court this morning Meess Holley was found guilty of vagrancy and was sentenced to the state farm at Bridgewater for a term of one year. James Ashton and Charles McGonigle, charged with vagrancy, had their cases continued until 5 o'clock, August 23.

John Ryan, charged with drunkenness, was fined $5. Clarence Dennis and Robert McGrail, charged with fraudulently obtaining food from W. B. Wescott's restaurant, were ordered to pay the costs amounting to $2.08 each. Dennis paid and McGrail defaulted.

SCIENTIFIC SCRAPES.

One of the moons of Mars goes through all of its phases, "new, full and old moon," once every 24 hours.

A Swiss scientist has been testing the presence of bacteria in the mountain air and finds that not a single microbe exists above an altitude of 3,000 feet.

The majority of recent calculations on the speed of the sun through space place it at about 40 miles per second, or nearly 3,000 times faster than the average express train moves.

Professor Runge of Hanover says that the bright yellow line in the spectrum of phenol, camphor and aniline with a little turpentine. When its temperature is lowered below the point at which water freezes, it becomes liquid, but when it is heated it turns to the solid state.

SUES FOR A DIVORCE.

Henry C. Savage Prays for a Bill on the Grounds of Desertion.

The following, the substance of a legal notice published in a Pittsfield paper, will explain itself to the North Adams public.

"Henry C. Savage of North Adams in our county of Berkshire makes allegation that he was lawfully married to Ida M. Savage, whose maiden name was Ida M. Arnold, now residing in Milan, Italy, at Adams, in this county, on the twentieth day of October, 1874, and thereafterwards he and the said Ida M. Savage lived together as husband and wife in this commonwealth, to wit, at Adams and North Adams; that he has always been faithful to his marriage vows and obligations, but the said Ida M. Savage being wholly regardless of the same at said Milan in the month of May A. D. eighteen hundred and ninety-two, utterly deserted him and has continued such desertion from that time to the date hereof, being more than three years consecutively next prior to the filing of this libel.

Wherefore Mr. Savage prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between him and the said Ida M. Savage, and such other orders and decrees made in the premises as to the court officials seems meet and proper.

Dated the fifteenth day of August A. D. eighteen hundred and ninety-five.

Mrs. Savage, now resident abroad, is notified to appear before the Superior Court on the first Monday in October next and show cause why a divorce should not be granted.

THAT SMALLPOX CASE.

What North Adams Will Have to Pay For It.

About two years ago a woman by the name of Mrs. Frank Pelott was taken sick with smallpox in Holyoke. Her sickness was expensive, as she had to be quarantined and cared for at the disadvantage of a contagious disease. The expense came to $615, and this amount the city of Holyoke desires North Adams to pay.

Yesterday City Almoner J. T. Cunningham of Holyoke was urging the claim on our selectmen. The state agent of charity was here at the same time. Both gentlemen locate the residence of Mrs. Frank Pelott in North Adams because of her husband's father's residence and property here.

Our selectmen object to the claim on two grounds: That it is exorbitant and that Mrs. Pelott's husband's residence was not North Adams.

Unless the matter is settled Holyoke will probably bring suit against North Adams. This must be done before Sept. 6, as the two years' limit of bringing suit expires at that time. Our selectmen will come to a decision in the matter on Saturday, when Holyoke will either receive payment or will have a chance to sue.

MCDONALD'S MONEY FOUND.

It Was Not Stolen, But Was Lost on Centre Street.

The money belonging to Joseph McDonald of Albany, N. Y., discovered yesterday to be lost was not stolen as those acquainted with the circumstances believed. There was no way for any outsider to reach Mr. McDonald's clothing in his room in R. F. Burrows' boarding house on Church place. John W. McCann found the pocket book containing the money on Centre street Tuesday night. Last night he brought it to the police station and Chief Fuller notified Mr. McDonald, who convinced the chief and Mr. McCann that the pocketbook and money were his. He had lost them during an evening stroll. He gave Mr. McCann $10. Mr. McCann should be commended for his honesty.

ONE MORE BURGLAR STORY.

Miles Ashton's Experience The Other Night at His Boarding House.

Miles Ashton, Telegraph Lineman, who boards at W. F. Orr's on the corner of Eagle and Prospect streets tells a good story of attempted burglary. The other night he was awakened by noises near his window which he could not account for. He got up and went to the window which opens over the piazza roof and he saw a window on the roof attempting to open a window. Mr. Ashton lowered his window quickly and struck out at the man. The man dropped to the ground and ran away rapidly.

John R. Hunt.

John R. Hunt died yesterday at North Bennington, Vt. He lived in this town many years and was well known here. He held a responsible position with Harvey Arnold & Co., in the old days and left this town about fifteen years ago. He was a strong Congregationalist and earnest Christian man. He is survived by his widow and two sons, Edward and Alfred Hunt of North Bennington, and a daughter, Mrs. C. W. Ford of Wisconsin. A sister, Mrs. Wheelock, of Wisconsin also survives him. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from his late home and interment will be in the family burial plot at Cheshire.

McCue's Challenge Accepted.

In response to the challenge issued by James McCue through the columns of this paper two days ago, the following acceptance has been received:

EDITOR TRANSCRIPT: I wish to state I will run J. McCue in four weeks from date, providing he makes a satisfactory deposit within a week at the TRANSCRIPT office to show good faith. I will cover the amount of his deposit. C. LUCIA.

R. T. O'Brien would like to enter a three-cornered race with these same gentlemen.

More Marriages.

Edward S. Gillman and Miss Elizabeth J. Davies both of this town will be married tonight at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. Dr. George W. Brown. At the same time and place Edward J. Moyle and Miss Edith E. Williams will be married.

—A. M. Tinker's banking and bond office was opened for business today. It is in the Blackinton block and is admirably fitted up. The business will be conducted with persons of ability who have had experience.

A BEAR AGAIN.

BEE HUNTERS HEAR NOISES IN THE BRUSH AND FIND A BEAR.

One Goes For a Gun and the Bear Leaves in His Absence.

Still the bear stories come from the rural sections. D. Bradley went up on Florida mountain yesterday to spend a day or two hunting bees with his father by way of vacation. He was accompanied by Willie, son of Officer Frank Jones. They started bee hunting and were progressing finely when their attention was attracted from gaud in the insect world to game in the animal kingdom. They had gotten a little over half a mile from the house and they know they were heading for a honey tree. The marked guidebees had often come to lead from the honey the men provided for the purpose and kept flying in the same direction. They came back quickly showing that their home was not far off. When it became certain the men were very near to a honey tree they heard a noise in the bushes and looking in the direction from which it came they saw a half grown black bear.

The men were not prepared for meeting with such game and did not know what to do. The bear did not seem to be unduly annoyed at the presence of the men and Mr. Bradley decided to go to the house for a gun. He covered the half mile in as short a time as he ever did the same distance before and soon the proper weapons were in the hands of the men. The bear had grown tired of waiting to be shot at and had slunk off into some brush. A search was begun and kept up for several hours but nothing but signs were discovered. The men turned again to their honey hunting, declaring they would never go out again unless prepared for any emergency. They were more successful in the honey hunting than in the hunt for the bear. They soon found a rich old tree. It is probable the bear and the men were on similar expeditions. A bear's fondness for honey is proverbial.

Bliss Business College Opening.

The Bliss Business College and School of Shortland will reopen Monday, Sept. 24, '95. A short session will be held Monday morning but the work of the term will really begin on Tuesday.

The management have secured the old Grand Army quarters across the hall from their present rooms and they will be fitted up at once ready for occupation the opening day. This will give accommodation to nearly double as many students as are in attendance at present, and from the large number of inquiries received from North Adams and tributary towns it is expected that all this space will be occupied.

Mr. E. J. Shaw who had charge of the business practice Department last term has accepted a partnership in the firm and will hereafter become one of its active members.

North Adams has a business college superior to most and equal in every respect to any institution of the kind in the United States.

OUT OF HER ELEMENT.

Valkyrie Looked Over In Drydock
by Those Who Know It All.

General Opinion That She Is a Good Article.

Defender Compelled to Undergo General Repairs at Herreshoff's Works.

New York, Aug. 21.—Valkyrie III is safely drydocked in the Erie basin. The vessel's appearance below the water line only goes to confirm the judgment that had been formed on seeing her aloft—that she is a very huge and powerful boat.
There was some surprise that she is so very bulky and shows so few signs of the bounty that one would look for in a racing yacht.

In spite of Valkyrie's great size, she has certain lines that easily bespeak the Watson model. This resemblance was easily discernible in the angle from the bow and downward. Head of the stern-ward end of the vessel, the stern-ward part of the keel, there is not a straight line in her. It is a continuous bend all the way through. Valkyrie's keel is built at an angle that may be called a rake. Her bow is very full, and in this suggests Vigilant.

In the matter of overhang, both forward and aft, she exceeds Defender, while in her stance the difference is further enhanced. In fact, as our old sailor remarked, after he had looked the ship over:
"There is only one thing about her like Defender, and that is the rake of her rudder-post." It is at the foot of this post that the vessel has her greatest depth.

The boat's most attractive quality, attention and comment because of its height and graceful, distinctive. The steel boom is a very long spar, and men with experienced eyes said that those who had estimated it to be 105 feet long were

Not a Bit Exaggerative in the Guess.

There was every evidence to confirm the reports from the other side that the Valkyrie would spread a record-breaking area of canvas, and the old salts who noticed this added, in their remarks on the subject, that the ship would be well able to stand up under all that could be crowded on her up to "a good, smart breeze of wind." Beyond that, they were rather doubtful.

The longer the yachtsmen studied the lines of the foreigner the more convinced did they become of two things. One was that her load waterline length was not nearly so great as her hull size indicated at first glance, and the other that the challenge was more depth of keel in its deepest part than Defender. Their conclusions necessitated deep surmises, and in both the result was favorable to Valkyrie. If the length on the waterline is less than Defender's it will shorten the time allowance which everybody says
Valkyrie will have to give her opponent.

Her keel is deeper, it will, in all probability, assist her more in beating to windward.

Among the most interested of the speculators on the dock was E. A. Willard, commander of the Vigilant. It could be seen from the expression on his face that he thought she was a pretty good article.

He would not, however, express more of an opinion than to say that he believed her to be a pretty good boat. He did add that there was no sign of her having been strained on the rough voyage across the Atlantic, but anybody could see that.

The Mishaps to Defender
In Tuesday's trial race were more serious than had been thought.

A careful examination of the yacht showed that the bound-band to which the shrouds are attached had for some reason slipped down the mast, allowing the shrouds to sag three-quarters of an inch.
Further than this, under the strain of the heavy breeze, the mast had "buckled" about 30 feet below the topmast, which made it unsafe.

It was concluded to take the yacht at once to Bristol for repairs. As soon as she arrives there a large force of men will be put at work day and night getting her ready for the next trial. A new and larger mast, which is all ready, will be stepped, and the necessary alterations in sails will be made. It is hoped that the Defender will be ready to race by next Tuesday.

demand is supposed to explain the shazada's long stay.

Strike of Boston Garment Workers
Is Having a Good Effect.A Number of Contractors Have Already Yielded.Men Determined to Hold Out in Behalf of the Women Workers.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—The success of the strike of the garment workers is assured, and the time of idleness for the operatives promises to be very brief. Already 27 of the contractors have agreed to the conditions required by their working people, and the majority of the others, it is confidently expected, will sign today. The men have taken a chivalrous part in this labor conflict. They are standing loyally to the women, even when a settlement of benefit to themselves might result by their deserting them. They claim the women are doing as good and as much work as they are, and should be paid accordingly.

"With this object in view," say the officers of the union, "we have resolved to protect this struggle to a successful termination. Either the demands of the women shall be granted or we shall demoralize the entire contract system and inaugurate something better in its stead."

In reply to the query as to why the bond was so sternly exacted, Secretary A. J. Kelly replied: "Even with the bond at our disposal during the past year, our men have been so provoked through the most flagrant violations of the agreement that we have been very many times."

On the verge of a General Strike, in which we would have been fully justified in the eyes of a justice-loving public. "We sympathized with the victims and tolerated the abuse when, perhaps, we ought not to have done so, rather than it should be said we had taken advantage of the weapon at our disposal, which today stands us in good stead, because it emphasizes our sincerity and entitles our hope for the new past to a fair trial."

The premature, yet not unexpected, "pull-out" yesterday was received with a kind of doubt, and the presence of the agents in a few instances was necessary to convince them of the effect of the night previous.

If a single evidence of the earnestness and determination of the strike was required, a glance at the financial secretary's desk and the door yesterday, and the line of depositors eagerly waiting, all spoke with a pleasing elation.

The contractors now claim they have no hesitancy to give the bond demanded, if only the request of the women was expunged.

This is the House of Contention standing in the way of a settlement, and the contractors say that if the firms will concede to their request of paying more for their contracts they will at once affix their names to the settlement.

In reply to a dispatch forwarded by A. J. Kelly to National Secretary Boichers of New York, apprising him of the strike, the gentleman replied that the interests of Boston will be looked after in New York and Brooklyn, and any attempt of contractors to handle Boston goods will be followed by a reopening of hostilities.

At 10 o'clock last night bonds to the amount of $5,000 were on file. (Thus the teachers, it may be safely inferred, of what promised to be a protracted struggle is broken, and by tonight, it is surmised by the officers of the union, that very few needles will be idle.

AN AGGRESSIVE FIGHT

Promised by the Nomination of Campbell For Governor of Ohio.Said to Be an Aspirant For Presidential Nomination.Democratic and Republican Platforms Drawn on the Same Lines.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Aug. 22.—The state convention of Ohio Democrats chose for the head of its state ticket ex-Governor Campbell, and the platform it adopted was built on an honest money foundation. Although Mr. Campbell had previously intimated that he had no desire to again be a candidate, he accepted the nomination.

The convention made all its nominations without opposition. The convention was in session from 10:20 a. m. until 1:30 p. m., and the nominations were completed in a half-hour after ex-Governor Campbell had been elected for the status of leader. The ballots were all on the minority report, on credentials and resolutions, and the time was thus consumed in the contests between the gold and the silver men.

The gold men, headed by Senator Brice, had claimed that there would be less than 200, and probably not many more than 200, of the 808 delegates vote for free silver. The silver men claimed they would have no less than 200, and probably 300, delegates for free silver. It developed that there were 270 free-silver delegates. It was a fighting minority, but it did not carry the fight further than to the platform. The nominee for member of the board of public works is said to be the only free-silver man on the state ticket, although the silver lines were not drawn on the candidates.

There was considerable enthusiasm over the nomination of Campbell. He defeated ex-Governor Parker in 1889, and was defeated for re-election as governor in 1891 by William McKinley, Jr., the present incumbent.

When nominations were called for, Mr. Campbell took the floor to head off the calls for himself, and to present the name of Judge Peck of Cincinnati for governor. He was interrupted by James A. Norton, who moved to suspend the rules and nominate Campbell for re-election.

Mr. Campbell protested, saying that he had run for governor three times in a Republican state and twice for governor in a Republican state till he was depleted financially, and otherwise unable to make the sacrifice for the race. He insisted on the nomination of Judge Peck or some other good Democrat who could make a good race and afford to make it.

The motion of Dr. Norton was put and carried with a great whirl of enthusiasm, and the chair declared Mr. Campbell the nominee for governor.

President Taggart and Dr. Norton escorted ex-Governor Campbell to the platform, when he was received with a grand ovation, and said:

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen—I received the announcement of this committee with mingled feelings of surprise and regret. A good soldier and a good citizen, but not a politician, I promise not to alter, and I am for you to say whether in the end I shall or shall not fail."

The nomination of Campbell means an aggressive campaign in Ohio, where McKinley is now recognized as a candidate for president and Fowler for senator, the fate of both depending largely upon the pending contest between Campbell and Bushnell for governor.

It is generally understood that ex-Governor Campbell was induced to make the race by promises of support for the presidential nomination, in the event of success, next November, in which contingency he may again confront his old opponent—McKinley.

In co-operating with Senator Brice for a Democratic legislature, ex-Governor Campbell is again confronting his other old opponent—Brice.

Although Senator Brice is also known to have presidential aspirations, it is the generally accepted theory that Brice and Campbell have reached such an understanding, so as to contest everything in Ohio with McKinley and Parker, who have everything at stake on the election of Asa Bushnell for governor and a Republican legislature next November.

It is thought that the contest between these old leaders in Ohio will foreshadow the currency question and other issues. There is so little difference between the Republican and Democratic platforms on silver that the currency question is now generally believed to be disposed of in Ohio, but the tariff will be kept prominent, as the parties differ widely on that issue.

Both men, Governor Campbell is expected to arraign the Republican state administration of the past four years very severely, as he did in the previous campaigns.

Governor Campbell called in his friends before leaving and, with Senator Brice and others, arranged for beginning at once an aggressive campaign, in which they expect the co-operation of leading Democrats throughout the country.

For Sound Money.

The majority report of the committee on resolutions, adopted 14 to 2, states as the basis of the platform the following: "The repeal of the Sherman law, the federal election law and the McKinley law. It congratulates President Cleveland for his efforts in favor of the repeal of these laws."

In upholding of the credit of the country have been successful. It congratulates Senator Brice "for the earnest and effective support he has given to the president in these matters."

It declares that the Democratic party "is entitled to the thanks of the people for the courage with which it has attacked and repelled the tariff laws."

It also reaffirms that portion of the plank of the national Democratic platform which says: "We hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country, and to the discharge of both gold and silver without discrimination against either metal or change for mintage; but the dollar unit of coinage of both metals must be of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value, or be adjusted by international agreement, or by such safeguards of legislation as shall secure the maintenance of the parity of the two metals and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the payment of debt, and we demand that the paper currency shall be kept at par and redeemable in such coin. We insist upon the policy necessary for the creation of a favorable and laboring classes, the first and most defenseless victims of unstable money and fluctuating currency." The remainder of the platform deals with state issues.
